

Principal Components of Policy Framework for Sustainable Agriculture and Its Implications for National Extension System in Iran

H. Shabanali Fami
K. Kalantari
A. Sharifzadeh
H. Moradnezhadi

ABSTRACT. The past decade has witnessed major progress toward achieving objectives of sustainable agriculture. Since extension plays a major role in agricultural development, its policies should be consistent with and supportive to sustainable agriculture. In the agricultural

H. Shabanali Fami is Assistant Professor; K. Kalantari is Associate Professor; and A. Sharifzadeh is PhD in Agricultural Extension; all are affiliated with the Department of Agricultural Extension and Education, Faculty of Agricultural Economics and Development, Campus of Agricultural and Natural Resources, University of Tehran, Karaj, Tehran, Iran.

H. Moradnezhadi is Assistant Professor, University of Ilam, Pazhouhesh Boulevard, Ilam, Iran

Address correspondence to: H. Shabanali Fami, Department of Agricultural Extension and Education, Faculty of Agricultural Economics and Development, Campus of Agricultural and Natural Resources, University of Tehran, Karaj, Tehran, Iran (E-mail: hfami@ut.ac.ir).

The findings presented here are part of a study entitled: "Principal component analysis of sustainable agriculture policy from the viewpoints of staff extension personnel in the Ministry of agriculture."

The authors gratefully acknowledge the financial supports received from University of Tehran under the grant No. of 712/6/678 for the collection and analysis of the data.

Journal of Sustainable Agriculture, Vol. 31(2) 2007
Available online at <http://jsa.haworthpress.com>
© 2007 by The Haworth Press, Inc. All rights reserved.
doi:10.1300/J064v31n02_09

125